Korean Veterans To Receive Unemployment Compensation

Federal Unemployment Compensation for Korean veterans, similar to the Servicemen's Readjustment Allowances paid World War II veterans, will be paid after October 14, 1952, Harvard Smart, Manager of the Petoskey office of the Michigan Employment Security Commission announced today. This announcement is made in response to dozens of daily queries at M.E.S.C. branch offices throughout the State, Mr. Smart said.

The payments will amount to $26.00 a week for not more than 26 weeks, and are paid by the federal government through the M.E.S.C.'s claims division. To be eligible, a veteran must have service in the armed forces after June 26, 1950, and must have been discharged under conditions other than dishonorable.

Unemployment Compensation under this program may not be paid within 31 days after discharge if the veteran received $100 in mustering out pay; not within 61 days if he receives $200 of such pay; not within 91 days if eligible for $300. (This provision is inserted because $300 is paid overseas veterans with more than 90 days service; $200 to veterans with more than 90 days service in the United States, and $100 to veterans with less than 90 days service.)

The veteran's Readjustment Assistance Act, under which this unemployment compenstation is payable to veterans of the Korean conflict, provides that veterans must serve a one-week waiting period after their claim has been filed. They will be eligible for compensation in the second week, if still unemployment. He must be able to work, and availble for work. If the veteran has benefit rights under any state unemployment insurance program, or under the Railroad Unemployment Insurance Act, he must first claim such benefits. In Michigan, Korean veterans' wage credits in employment covered by the Michigan Employment Security Act are frozen as of the time they entered military service. benefits if they had previously earned any wage credits. However, Mr. Smart said, many of the Korean veterans have entered the armed forces without having any work experience at all. The Federal Act is of particular benefit to these young vets.

Extravagnza At Interlochen

NATIONAL MUSIC CAMP IN SHOW PROGRAM THIS SATURDAY NIGHT

An extravaganza in the best P. T. Barnum tradition highlights National Music Camp programs Saturday evening, Augst 2, at the Interlochen, Mich., music center. The second annual "Roller Circus" directed by Interlochen dance director Frances Wright will feature 131 dancers from her troupe performing an entire circus on wheels — complete to lions, tigers, elephants, dancing girls, acrobats, a German band oom-pahing through the audience, dozens of clowns, and even a human cannon-ball.

The "big top" will be Kresge outdoor auditorium, and ring-master Maury King of Mt. Berry, Georgia, will snap his whip at 8:30 p.m. to start the show.

Interlochen band director George Wilson, garbed in appropriate circus attire, and his 60-piece Honors band will provide an authentic musical setting for the lavishly-costumed pageant.

Three-fourths of the young dancers never skated until one month ago when Miss Wright introducted them to roller skates as part of their dance instruction.

Michigan dancer-skaters featured will include John Zeder, 15, of Pleasant Ridge, and Cynthia Dieterichs, 16, of Munising.

Zeder drew the choice role of "Elmer" in the comedy "Elmer the Elephant" routine, plus a solo performance as the "Human Cannonball".

Cynthia will lead seven chorines in a interpretative tango, the well-know Leroy Anderson number, "Blue Tango". She also skates in the gigantic finale, Drum Beat".

Throughout the performance real vendors will hawk popcorn and peanuts in the crowd — the only time this season that food of any kind will be permitted at an Interlochen program.

Skunks Have A "Stinkin Good Time"

Skunks are having a "stinkin' good time" in D. H. Day state park.

A family with an almost impregnable defense not only has moved in under the conservation department park manager's residence, but the genial "house guests" occasionally come out, play and put on a show.

Standing in the doorway, manager Alan Billings attempted to get a picture of the playful skunks when one of the made a bolt for the open door. The wood kitty missed.

We wish to express our sincere appreciation and thanks to our many friends and neighbors for the kind deeds that were done during the illness and death of our dear husband and father; also for the beautiful flowers, many gifts, fruit, and cards.

We also wish to thank the blood donors who gave blood during his illness, and Rev. DeHaven for his comforting words.

AN APPRECIATION

I wish to thank the many friends who visited me and sent cards, flowers and gifts during my stay at Munson Hospital.

31x1 Ted Scott

On ansering his doorbell a man found an old friend and a large dog standing on his porch.

"Come in! Come in!" he said.

His friend came in and sat down, while the dog put the man's cat to flight, knocked over a bridge lamp and several vases, and finally made himself comfortable in his best chair.

When the guest rose to leave, the host said with a touch of sarcasm in his voice, "Aren't you forgetting your dog?"

"Dog? I have no dog. I thought he was yours."

Temple to Power Is Rome's Plant On Historic Tiber

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Along Rome's historic Tiber River a literal as well as symbolic temple to power has joined the ghost-haunted relics of imperial and fascist Rome.

Just opened by the president of postwar republican Italy, this modern temple is a hydroelectric plant which will harness Tiber waters at Castel Giubileo, about 10 miles north of the Eternal City. It is expected to contribute 70,000,000 kilowatt hours a year to Italy's power resources.

Compared with the 20-odd billion kilowatt hours annually produced in Italy as a whole, the Tiber plant's capacity is relatively minor. The station, however is part of a large-scale program for the region, and will meet a pressing need in Rome and environs.

It also represents an expansion of general power reserves now playing a vital part in rebuilding and expanding Italian industrial and economic strength.

Italy long has been handicapped by lack of domestic coal and oil. Most of such fuel has had to be imported at heavy cost and inconvenience. Thus, the nation has come to depend more and more on electric power, generated chiefly from streams and waterfalls of the Alps and of the Apennines mountain spine along the peninsular "boot."

An estimated 87 per cent of the electric power that operate Italy's factory machines, its heating, lighting, and household equipment, comes from these water sources.

The other 13 per cent is derived from thermal (heat-produced) electricity. Of the latter, nearly half is man-made in plants that burn coal, oil, and gas—mostly coal at present. The rest, known as geothermic power, is obtained through the ingenious tapping of nature's own heating system, available in various volcanic areas of Italy.

The main source of volcanic power so far developed is an awesome area of steam vents and boiling pools near the town of Larderello in west-central Italy. There a vast supply of underground energy was first put to work in a practical way before World War I.

Today, with the help of Uncle Sam's ECA funds to further Italy's over-all power programs, the modern plant and drilling machinery at Larderello are turning out a billion kilowatt hours annually, with considerably more in prospect.

Man Winds Up In Jail For No Sense of Humor

PONTIAC, Mich.—A guy who didn't have a sense of humor wound up in jail here recently.

Police Sgt. Gordon Hodges chased down a speeding convertible in nearby Birmingham and motioned it to the curb. Instead of the usual quip about "going to a fire", he said casually, "Where did you steal that car?"

To his complete surprise the driver stammered, "at Forest and Gratiot, sir."

Hodges booked the youth at the Pontiac jail. About an hour later the owner made the discovery that his car had been stolen.

Fuel Problem Cited Major Obstacle to Lunar Flight

NEW YORK—A rocket that could go to the Moon and other planets was termed a "marginal possibility" by a General Electric scientist.

Anthony J. Nerad of the G-E Research Laboratory said that the greatest factor in making such extremely long distance rocket flight possible, with fuels now available, would be a rocket built in stages. Nerad, who is Assistant Manager of the laboratory's chemistry division, said there would be several sections, which would drop off one by one after fuel is used.

However, the scientist warned, still more development is required to make such rockets a reality. Even by taking advantage of all known techniques to extract from propellants the best possible performance, we still "have not attained the real margins needed for very long-range terrestrial rockets or those which we can send to the planets."

Headliners of Yesteryear Just Quiet Citizens Now

CHICAGO, Ill.—Where are the people who made the headlines yesterday? They are living normal lives just like the rest of the world.

Douglas (Wrong Way) Corrigan, for instance, is a presently unemployed test pilot. He made world newslines when he supposedly took off in New York for Los Angeles and wound up in Ireland. Whitaker Chambers, long a headline figure in the Communist spy trials, now lives quietly on a farm in Maryland. Tom Harmon, Michigan's great halfback, then war hero and short-time movie star, now works for Columbia Broadcasting System.

Eden Ahbez, robe-wearing follower of Yoga, knew momentary fame with the popularity of his song "Nature Boy", but now lives quietly in California. Ruth Elder, first woman to fly the Atlantic, took a brief fling at vaudeville, now lives in seclusion.

Time passeth on.

Perfect Agreement

A well-know judge once had a case before him in which the plaintiff was represented by a very nervous young barrister. When the barrister rose to begin his address to the jury, he stammered, "My unfortunate client—" and there he stuck. He tried again and in a shaking voice he managed to say, "My unfortunate client—" but he could get no further. Clearing his throat, he quavered for the third time, "My unfortunate client—" Again his voice failed.

"Come, come," interrupted the judge, "proceed with your address. So far the court agrees with you."

Dilemma!

Some kids were having a party and they decided to play postoffice. The first little boy and girl went into the closet and didn't come out. The other kids called to them to come out immediately. "We can't," came a muffled reply. "We have our braces hooked!"

D. L. (DON'T, DO LAUGH)

Folks along the C. & O. line up in Eastern Kentucky like to tell a story about a rather dense character who once worked briefly for the line.

This man's job was to do nothing more than check on all cars as they entered the yard and to check those which needed repairs of one kind or another. Those marked for repairs later would be switched over to the shop, the others sent out to pick up freight.

Well, after this character had been on the job one day, the switch crew went out to pick up the cars. However, the crew found every car had "DG" freshly chalked on the side.

"How in the world can I tell the O.K. cars from the bad ones?" the crew chief stormed. "And what in blazes does 'DG' mean?"

"Guess I made a slight mistake," the guy apologized "'DG' means 'Do Go' and 'Don't Go!'"

Fooled Again

Bob—"I'm getting stronger."
Helen—"How do you know?"
Bob—"Because a few years ago I couldn't carry ten dollars' worth of groceries and now it's easy."

HOW INCONSIDERATE!

They were having just one more at the bar when an old friend, previously quite normal, walked through the door, up the wall, across the ceiling and down the other wall. There was a moment of stunned silence, then: "What do you know about that!" one drinker exclaimed to the other. "He didn't even speak to us!"

Clean Kid

Removing finger smudges from the doors in the house, Mother asked; "Ann, are your hands dirty? Did you put them on the doors?"

"Oh, no," replied Ann. "Those can't be my finger marks—I always kick the doors open!"

DIDN'T PLAY

Hostess: "Did that rude husband of mine ask you not to play?"

Musical Guest: "Oh, no, Mrs. Jones, he only asked me not to play a certain tune."

Hostess: "What was it he said?"

Guest: "He said not to play 'For the Love of Pete.'"

Family Mixup

Two Hollywood youngsters were talking as they walked home from school. "I've got two little brothers and one sister," boasted one. "How many do you have?"

"I don't have any brothers and sisters," answered the second lad, "but I do have five papas by my first mama and three mamas by my first papa."

Exercise Needed To Make Daddy Fit as Fiddle

IOWA CITY, Iowa—Say, Dad—want to feel 20 years younger?

You can do it, if you're willing to spend a few minutes a day at the right kind of exercise.

This is the opinion of C. H. McCloy, research professor of physical education at the State University of Iowa, who says that a person of 60 can feel 20 years younger if he'll exercise for 20 minutes a day and take a 15-minute walk.

You'd agree that he knows what he's talking about if you could watch McCloy—an active youth of 65-plus, himself—do the 25 chin-ups which he can do with ease. The average performance of all World War II servicemen was only eight chin-ups.

Follows Routine

McCloy devotes an hour each day to strenuous exercise, and plans to continue this routine until advised by his doctor to stop.

"People should be careful not to overexercise, and all persons should be checked by a physician before starting a program of exercise," he warns.

With all the benefits of modern science and medicine, there is no reason for you to lose a large amount of your strength and vitality with advancing age, McCloy maintains. A man of 60 should have at least 85 per cent as much vitality as one of 25, he says.

"Most people should be healthy until they wear out," he claims. "Some, however, are limited by bad hearts or other organs, but even these persons can be helped a little by exercise. This exercise should be prescribed by a physician who has specialized in this field of medicine."

The problem of keeping older persons in good physical condition will become a vital one in years to come, since the number of persons in our society over 65 years old is constantly increasing.

By 1980, McCloy points out, only 55 per cent of the American population will be within the wage-earning age group and about 40 to 45 per cent will be supporting the entire society. This will include the 15 per cent who will be over 65, the 30 per cent younger than the wage-earning group and others who do not work for wages.

Possible Remedy

This unbalanced situation can be partially remedied by letting people continue on the job past the presently-established retirement age. Even if allowed to work only part-time, these persons would become an important part of the labor force and would not rely on society to support them, McCloy emphasizes.

That's where the benefits of exercise come in, as a means of preparing for the years ahead. Besides helping to extend the span of useful, active life, it just makes you feel better in general to be "in shape". And 90 per cent of all older persons can keep themselves in good physical shape with proper exercise, McCloy asserts.

Exercise should be made a part of your daily routine to be most effective, in McCloy's opinion. He recommends that it be done first thing in the morning, so a person can start the day feeling "sharp".

Front Line Galley Cooks in Korea Always Use Wits

WITH THE FIRST MARINE DIVISION IN KOREA—Seldom does necessity have more opportunity for motherhood than with cooks manning front line galleys in Korea. Take the case of Marine mess sergeant William L. Penney of Daytona Beach, Florida.

Penney decided to "whomp up a batch" of jelly-filled doughnuts for palate-weary men in his unit. Necessary ingredients were mixed and sizzling in deep fat when he had a horrible thought!

How was he to get the jelly in the jellied doughnuts?

Sergeant Penney rose magnificently to the emergency. Cranking up the field telephone, he contacted sick bay.

No, sick bay had no ear syringe. "Sorry . . . and what in . . . does Cookie want with an ear syringe anyway?"

Undaunted by skepticism and sarcasm, Penney called motor transport.

And two hours later every man in the company was chomping away on doughnuts, complete with jelly centers.

"Nothin' like a grease gun for filling pastry," said Penney proudly. "Don't know why I didn't think of it sooner."

French Burglar Is Upset When Wife Deserts Him

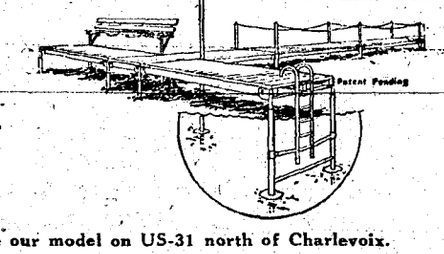

PARIS—Etienne Lemaitre, a convicted burglar awaiting trial on a murder charge, thought that he had good grounds when his wife ran off with another man, and so complained to the court.

"I'm a burglar, sure," he said, "I have stolen millions. But when a burglar's wife runs off with a policeman, that's really the limit."

The understanding court fined the wife 6,000 francs ($17.16) for adultery and awarded Lemaitre one franc (about ¼ cents) for damages

East Jordan Miss likes to walk around on the wings of flying plane. That is the way Adeline Trojanek, clerk in the auto title division of the department of state describes walking on the top wings of a plane travelling 80 miles an hour at a height of 3,000 feet. She has never piloted a plane but as a passenger had done about all the stunts in the air curriculum. "I want to take a ride on your plane", she said to Lieut A. J. Davis, M. A. C. college flier who owns the Michigan Airways Inc in East Lansing. "If you don't mind I will ride on the top wing and walk around a bit." Lieut Davis looked her over and was convinced she was not seeking suicide, so they took a ride, MissTrojanek standing on the top wing. At 3,000 ft. she one-stepped around from end to end. FARM FACTS from your County Agricultural Agent

Ed. Rebman, Co. Agr'l Agent

Addition of aureomycin and vitamin B 12 to feeds does not overcome the ill effects of worms in hogs, Ed Rebman, county agricultural agent, told farmers this week.

He said that some hog raisers have the mistaken idea that autibiotics and vitamins will let them forget their worm worries.

Rebman cited an experiment conducted by the U.S. Department of Agriculture to illustrate his point. Eight 10-week-old pigs were divided into two groups of four. Each group contained pigs from the same two litters. At the beginning of the experiment there was not more than a pound difference in weight between the groups of pigs.

One group was fed a regular diet—the other was fed the regular diet, plus six pounds of a crude mixture of vitamin B12 and aureomycin per ton of feed. Two days after the pigs were divided, two pigs in each group were infested with worms. All the pigs were weighed and slaughtered 169 days later.

Results showed that the worm free pigs on the special diet gained 161 pounds each, but those infested with worms on this diet gained 118 and 120 pounds, respectively. The worm-free pigs on the regular diet gained 98 and 164 pounds each. Those infested with worms on the regular diet gained 70 and 84 pounds each.

These experimental results show that pigs do gain more when fed antibiotics, but this growth is limited if worms are present.

About 21 percent of the tillable acres in Northern Michigan are in pasture, Ed Rebman, county agricultural agent, said today. Because of this high percentage, it is important that pasture be given serious attention. Native grasses supply good pasture early in the season; however, by midsummer they mature and become dry so they are no longer capable of supplying the needs of producing livestock.

Alfalfa and brome grass, and canary grass are some of the better high producing types of pasture that will hold up during a dry period. A program that has become popular is to make grass silage out of the early, plentiful supply of forage for midsummer feeding. A trench or horizontal type silo may be used.

To further hold down the cost of this job of preserving some of the feast for the famine, this silage can be put into this trench without chopping. It is important to have the sides fairly straight on the silo and to pack it well by driving over it with a tractor. The top may be covered with saw inches to prevent spoilage.

dust to a depth of about six

A field planted to fall rye in mid-August will give early fall pasture. This may solve the problem of having a field to pasture while the alfalfa-brome takes its fall rest period. Fertilizing the reed canary grass will make it more palatable. Those who do not have reed canary should remember that it is the summer dry months when the water table is low that those areas suitable for this crop can best be worked up. Seeding should be by mid-August or else late fall after plant growth has stopped. This usually means November 15.

Mice Get Rich Plan Backfires

BRUSSELS, Belgium — Belgium is having its trouble. A firm recently advertised that young white mice were needed in laboratory experiments and offered thousands for sale at $2 a pair. The advertisement offered to buy back the resulting droves of young white mice at 48 cents a head.

Thousands of Belgians purchased the mice. They produced thousands upon thousands of white mice but no profits. Crates of white mice came by the carload to the unsuspecting railroad stationmaster at Charleroi —the address listed by the advertisers.

When they remained uncollected after several days, he had them destroyed. The thousands more that kept arriving were shipped back to the senders.

Frantic Belgians, some with as many as 500 white mice in their homes and many more coming regularly, called in police. But the authorities said there was no legal basis for any action against anybody—except perhaps those would-be breeders who tried to wash their hands of the whole thing by turning loose their white mice in the streets.

Married Women Seen Best Labor Source For Defense Program

CHICAGO—Married women must provide the bulk of the new labor force required for all-out defense production, a leading home economist here predicts, in offering working wives four simple rules for maintaining household efficiency.

"With virtually all male employables either already working or slated for military service and nearly all the available single women also employed, it is obvious that a great percentage of defense workers must come from the ranks of married women," Betty Ware Browning, director of home economics for Nesco, Inc., said. "These women can do two jobs successfully and without impairment of their own or their family's welfare if they plan properly and have the proper equipment."

To handle their home chores successfully Miss Browning advises married women to:

1. Organize your work properly. Establish definite times to do specific jobs, plan menus at least a week ahead, schedule all household activities and keep to the schedule.

2. Take full advantage of modern labor-saving devices. Mechanize your home as fully as possible with such aids as electric roasters, mixing machines, automatic home laundry equipment, pressure cookers and pressure pan, vacuum cleaners and the various other appliances that save time and effort.

3. Cut down food preparation time by using frozen foods, prepared biscuit and cake mixes, packaged meats and vegetables and other postwar food developments that require little advance preparation.

4. Do all your shopping in one weekly trip to the supermarket.

Students Perform Unusual Jobs While Earning Degrees

NEW YORK—According to John F. X. Ryan, undergraduate placement director at City College of New York, students are still performing unusual jobs while earning their degrees.

Probably the first American to work his way through college was Zechariah Brigden. He earned 22 shillings, 6 pence a week as a bell ringer at Harvard college in 1654.

Today students are still doing unusual jobs. A father called Ryan just before Christmas and requested a student with a "deep, jolly voice" for a job. The student with the required voice reported for work and discovered he was to play Santa Claus to the man's three children. He played his part behind a screen.

Of more than 10,000 jobs listed by the placement bureau at City college, magazine salesmen are in great demand, but Ryan finds students are reluctant to take the risk of a commission. They prefer a sure return.

Hundreds of students, he said, would rather risk getting rashes when employed by a New Jersey chemical testing company to wear dyes and chemicals on their skins to test reactions. For this job they get $5 a "patch test."

There are taxicab drivers, policemen and firemen attending the college, and one student is a meat carver for a large packing house. Others walk dogs for "canine clubs", baby sit, do personal shopping or wait on tables.

Oslo Gave to Be Shelter; Garage During Peacetime

OSLO, Norway — Some 800,000 cubic feet of rock will be blasted out of a hill near the royal palace in the center of Oslo for the first of four public air raid shelters planned for the Norwegian capital.

The shelter will have two floors with room for about 4,000 people and is scheduled for completion by the end of 1951. In peacetime it will be used as a garage for 120 automobiles.

Work on Oslo's three other air raid shelters will start this year. Shelter for a total of 45,000 people will be provided in the first building stage.

SHORT STORY

No Apologies

By Georgia C. Nicholas

"YOU'RE LATE, Neil Horner!" Taffy handed Neil her jacket to hold for her.

"I know it," Neil said, "And what's more I forgot to bring back that book that my mother borrowed from your mother."

3-Minute Fiction

"And you're not even sorry?" Taffy prodded.

Neil opened the door for her. "I'm only ten minutes late and your mother said she was in no hurry for the book."

Taffy didn't answer until they were in the car and on their way to the Horner residence for dinner. "Just how late do you have to be to say you're sorry?"

"What good would it do to say I'm sorry?"

Taffy didn't answer. She didn't want to start a quarrel now. She didn't know Neil's parents very well and she did hope they'd like her. Taffy's mother and Neil's mother belonged to the same club and that's how they became acquainted.

"See why I never apologize," he whispered.

"When are you going to say you'll marry me?" Neil asked as if he didn't know Taffy was peeved.

"I'm not. You haven't any manners."

"I haven't had any complaints before. Don't I always open doors for you and all the other things a guy is supposed to do?

"Oh, yes, the manners that can be seen. But just between us two sometimes I think you're downright rude. You never apologize."

"When are you going to say you'll marry me?"

"I won't say it till you say you're sorry you were late and that you forgot the book."

This time Neil was the quiet one. The situation was still unsettled when he turned onto a winding driveway. "Oh, Neil, do you think they'll like me?" Taffy asked.

"Does it matter?"

TAFFY had no chance to answer that one. A maid opened the door for them. She showed Taffy to a bedroom and while Taffy was taking off her jacket Mrs. Horner entered.

"I'm so sorry I wasn't at the front door," Mrs. Horner mourned, "I was all upset this afternoon because the butcher didn't send the kind of meat I ordered. I'm afraid it isn't going to be a very good dinner."

Taffy did her best to assure Mrs. Horner that she was quite comfortable without her jacket. It seemed that the oil burner was out of kilter.

"I don't know how I look in this dress," Mrs. Horner said. "It's one I made myself and I just finished it this afternoon."

Taffy laughed her polite little laugh and they went downstairs. Mr. Horner was a much more comfortable person to meet. He tried to make conversation at the dinner table and cancel his wife's deprecation of everything. After dinner he said, "Mother, I think our guest might like to see some of your paintings."

"Yes," Neil said, "Mother's giving Grandma Moses a run for her money."

Mr. Horner led the way into the living room. Mrs. Horner said, "Oh, they really aren't worth looking at."

"Then let's not look at them."

Had Taffy said that? Taffy had. She realized it on the word 'look' and that was too late. She put her hand over her mouth and faced Neil. His mouth was open as if he'd started to say something, changed his mind and forgotten to shut it. But there was a sparkle in his eyes, the same sparkle she had loved for a long time.

She wasn't quite clear about who said what during the next minute. But somehow Mr. Horner led Mrs. Horner out of the room and people said goodnight. She still stood there looking helplessly at Neil.

He held out his arms. "See, why I never apologize?" he whispered.

"Yes, I see. I still think you carry it to extremes, but if I can ever be forgiven for what I just said I'd like to marry you sometime."

"Forgiven? That was just what my mother needed. Now let's take this book back to your mother and tell her we're engaged."

Alger became an enthusiastic Eisenhower for president supporter more than a year ago, when the two met and talked over the country's needs, seeing eye to eye.

Alger was the first state official, and the only candidate for governor to endorse Eisenhower. He was criticized for doing so. It wasn't good politics. Good politics dictated that he ride the fence. He wouldn't because he believes the people should know where a candidate for office stands.

The Eisenhower-Alger combination is a natural.

Both are agreed that the Nation's defense comes first.

Both have proven themselves good and able administrators, Ike in the European zone, Alger as an efficient, economy-minded, three-term Secretary of State.

Both are full-time veterans of World War II.

Both have records bespeaking unalterable hatred of dictatorship, Ike in arming the western world against Stalinist aggression; Alger as leader of the movement which ended machine rule of the Republican Party of Michigan.

They understand each other.

The Servicemen's Letter

Hi Fellas:

A new man on our list this week is Pee Wee Peck. He ended up in the armored down in Fort Leonard Wood. His address is Pvt Lyle R. Peck, US 55 273 476, Btry B, 93rd FA Bn, 6th Armored Div, Fort Leonard Wood, Missouri. Pee Wee — do you know Jim McLaughlin? Well, he is there in camp with you studying to be a cook. He ought to be a good man to know. He is in the 5012 A.S.U., Food Service School. Better look him up.

Bill Snyder was in the office yesterday. He has finished his basic at Fort Riley and is home on leave before he takes off for Georgia for ASA school. He was in Fort Devens for just about a day and a half but didn't get to see the Morris twins, DaleLavanway, or Brock Peacock.

Congratulations to Wayne Flora. Those long awaited two stripes have at last settled on his shoulders.

Vale Keller has been home since July 5th and I just found out last week. Guess I'm pretty slow about some things. Vale was to see me just before he left for Camp Stoneman on the 23rd. Camp Stoneman is a POE for airmen and Vale figures he will be on his way to Japan very soon. Bob Farmer is leaving for the same camp at about the same time. Wouldn't it be jolly if these two drew the same ship?

Just received word that we should add Company A to Ken Richards address. The correction has been made, Eenie.

While on the subject of England, here's a letter from Bob Mosher, who is over there not far from Eenie. "Here I am with a few lines again. After getting Denies address from your paper I wrote him a line. He is at Fairford, just 14 miles from Brize Norton, but in my weak financial state at this time of the month it's almost impossible to see him.

We are making plans to get together after payday. Boy it sure will be good to see someone from E.J.

They are keeping us quite busy, as wee keep all SCARWAF equipment in England going. They number 1300 pieces I am told. That's how I knew Ken was near because we have a lot of the 817th equipment to work on. No more than any others but still a lot. At present I am working on a road grader, have been for a week and it looks like I'll be at it for another week. When they stop is when they come in to be fixed so we really get some sad machinery to work on.

'Gotta close now and take in the cinema."

Thanks for the note, Bob. That's what I would like from all you men overseas. Don't mind if you can't write me a long letter. Just drop me a lote or even a postal card. We all like to hear how you are getting along.

Glen Persons is back in Norfolk now. You men down there can probably find the USS Botetourt in the harbor. Glen just took his exam for 3rd Class. Here's hoping you made it, Glen.

In a letter from Clifford Schultz I discoverel that last week I gave you one part of his address wrong. His address reads L.C.U. Ron One instead of L.C.U. Ro One. Here's his letter. "It is about time I dropped you a line and told you of my change of address. I am now on APA (transport) heading for Japan. We left the States the tenth and expect to get there about the first. We spent 2 days in Pearl Harbor and are on our way to Wake Island. I don't know how long we will stay there.

'We will be put on an LCU when we get to Japan but as yet I don't know what they will have us doing. Well, it is about time for the movie so I'll sign off for now."

Thanks for keeping us posted, Cliff.

Last week I reported that Louis Addis and wife had been transferred to Colorado. But I forgot to put in his new address. Here it is: M/Sgt Louis Addis, 36 926 845, Flight D, 4th ARS, Lowry AFB, Colorado. I note also that Russell Fyan is in that same base. He is in the 3415 Student Squad I'll bet he would be glad to make your acquaintance, Louis.

Glen Persons brother Sam left for Detroit this Monday to take his Army Physical. If he passes he is going right on in at once. I'll be able to let you know next week.

Here's a letter from the Fleet Home Town News Center at Great Lakes, Illinois about Bruce Bolser. "UN FORCES KOREA — Serving here aboard the destroyer USS James C. Owens is Bruce E. Bolser, gunners mate seaman, USN. Bolser entered the Navy on July 13, 1950 and received his recruit training at the U.S. Naval Training Center, Great Lakes, Illinois. In May the Owens knocked out two Communist shore batteries near Songjin. In the battle the destroyer suffered six direct hits." It sounds as though Bruce has been through the hoops.

More news next week, men.

Paving Barn Lot Makes Work Easier During Wet Spring

"When farm work slackens this fall you may want to consider paving your barn lot to make next spring's work easier," suggests J. S. Boyd, Michigan State College agricultural engineer.

He has some pointers for doing a better job. The barn lot is most useful if the area is sunny and has some protection from prevailing westerly winds. That means planning the lot for the south or the east side of the barn. Or a board fence between buildings may turn the wind. You need only a little protection.

Second consideration is the slope of the lot. About one-fourth inch slope per foot is about right, Boyd says. Carry the slope out from the barn to a broad, grassed waterway where surface drainage water leads rapidly away.

Boyd suggests a goal of 100 square feet per cow in the paved area. You may want additional earth barn lot for drier weather.

Clean the lot before you pave, fill in spongy spots, and grade down high spots. Sand or gravel four to six inches deep, will keep the lot from settling after the concrete is laid. A gravel base also helps reduce damage from frost heaving.

The finished paving will need to be several inches below the inside barn floor level. That lets doors swing free and keeps water from running into the barn. Boyd recommends a full four inches of good quality concrete. If there will be heavy traffic, such as loaded wagons or trucks, the concrete should be reinforced with welded wire mesh.

It is a good idea to dig a footdeep trench around the edges of the paved area. Fill this with sand the same as under the rest of the barn lot. This will help keep out rodents, prevent undercutting from erosion or cracking from vehicles driven onto the pavement.

Don't wait too long to start the job this fall. Boyd warns that concrete should never be laid over frozen ground.

"Oh, darling, I love you so. I'm not wealthy, like Jerome Green. I haven't a car, or a fine house, like Jerome Green. But darling I love you."

"And I love you, too, darling; but where is this man Green?"

Seed Wheat Bought From Local Source Rated Dependable

Many farmers are beginning to think about seed for the wheat crop to be planted this fall. S. C. Hildebrand, Michigan State College extension specialist in farm crops, has some suggestions based on research tests and experiences of farmers.

Both soft white winter and soft red winter wheats are recommended for Michigan depending on the section of the state. The hard red winter wheats are not recommended because they do not produce typical hard wheat. Therefore, a dockage may result if the soft and hard types become mixed on the farm or at the elevator.

Hildebrand recommends purchasing seed wheat from local seed dealers and seed producers. They are interested in your business year after year while salesmen who travel from farm to farm selling seed at high prices may neve try to sell you seed wheat again. For this reason local dealers may be more dependable. In some cases, salesmen from other areas may sell seed which is not even adapted to your farm.

The Michigan State College specialist also points out that seed certified by the Michigan Crop Improvement Association is of high varietal purity and is more free from mixtures of other wheat and rye. Such seed is as good or better than any available and can usually be obtained locally at reasonable prices.

"Little Tiger" Gives Dog a Battle

The white "little tiger" giving the dog a battle in Mrs. Albert Wright's backyard proved to be a rare albino woodchuck, the conservation department reports.

Answering the call for help from the St. John woman, conservation officer Earl Goff finally managed to bag the odd-colored woodchuck and cart it down to the Rose Lake Wildlife Experiment station northeast of Lansing.

Normal coloring of the "professional excavator" is gray with a yellow cast.

PREPARE YOUTH TO MEET GOD

Teach Youth To Have Faith In A Supreme Being

Behind the dark veil that separates today from tomorrow may lie strange, new faces, treacherous tides, innumerable hidden dangers and new foes of human life and happiness. These are the great uncertainties of life.

The man of today, like his primitive ancestors, peers anxiously, even fearfully, into the future and tries to solve its mysteries, but the effort is futile. His vision is humble to pierce the darkness that shounds tomorrow and tomorrow and tomorrow.

He has survived and become pre-eminent in the world because he possessed faith — faith in himself and his race, and faith in a "Supreme Being" who drew the pattern of the universe and made the laws that govern human destinies.

This is the golden thread that runs through history. It is the key to all the uncertainties and mysteries. It is the light that has guided man's footsteps into his enternal futures. Teach children to have faith in a supreme being.

Korean Veterans To Receive Unemployment Compensation

Federal Unemployment Compensation for Korean veterans, similar to the Servicemen's Readjustment Allowances paid World War II veterans, will be paid after October 14, 1952, Harvard Smart, Manager of the Petoskey office of the Michigan Employment Security Commission announced today. This announcement is made in response to dozens of daily queries at M.E.S.C. branch offices throughout the State, Mr. Smart said.

The payments will amount to $26.00 a week for not more than 26 weeks, and are paid by the federal government through the M.E.S.C.'s claims division. To be eligible, a veteran must have service in the armed forces after June 26, 1950, and must have been discharged under conditions other than dishonorable.

Unemployment Compensation under this program may not be paid within 31 days after discharge if the veteran received $100 in mustering out pay; not within 61 days if he receives $200 of such pay; not within 91 days if eligible for $300. (This provision is inserted because $300 is paid overseas veterans with more than 90 days service; $200 to veterans with more than 90 days service in the United States, and $100 to veterans with less than 90 days service.)

The veteran's Readjustment Assistance Act, under which this unemployment compenstation is payable to veterans of the Korean conflict, provides that veterans must serve a one-week waiting period after their claim has been filed. They will be eligible for compensation in the second week, if still unemployment. He must be able to work, and availble for work. If the veteran has benefit rights under any state unemployment insurance program, or under the Railroad Unemployment Insurance Act, he must first claim such benefits. In Michigan, Korean veterans' wage credits in employment covered by the Michigan Employment Security Act are frozen as of the time they entered military service. benefits if they had previously earned any wage credits. However, Mr. Smart said, many of the Korean veterans have entered the armed forces without having any work experience at all. The Federal Act is of particular benefit to these young vets.

Michigan dancer-skaters featured will include John Zeder, 15, of Pleasant Ridge, and Cynthia Dieterichs, 16, of Munising.

Zeder drew the choice role of "Elmer" in the comedy "Elmer the Elephant" routine, plus a solo performance as the "Human Cannonball".

Korean Veterans To Receive Unemployment Compensation

Federal Unemployment Compensation for Korean veterans, similar to the Servicemen's Readjustment Allowances paid World War II veterans, will be paid after October 14, 1952, Harvard Smart, Manager of the Petoskey office of the Michigan Employment Security Commission announced today. This announcement is made in response to dozens of daily queries at M.E.S.C. branch offices throughout the State, Mr. Smart said.

The payments will amount to $26.00 a week for not more than 26 weeks, and are paid by the federal government through the M.E.S.C.'s claims division. To be eligible, a veteran must have service in the armed forces after June 26, 1950, and must have been discharged under conditions other than dishonorable.

Unemployment Compensation under this program may not be paid within 31 days after discharge if the veteran received $100 in mustering out pay; not within 61 days if he receives $200 of such pay; not within 91 days if eligible for $300. (This provision is inserted because $300 is paid overseas veterans with more than 90 days service; $200 to veterans with more than 90 days service in the United States, and $100 to veterans with less than 90 days service.)

The veteran's Readjustment Assistance Act, under which this unemployment compenstation is payable to veterans of the Korean conflict, provides that veterans must serve a one-week waiting period after their claim has been filed. They will be eligible for compensation in the second week, if still unemployment. He must be able to work, and availble for work. If the veteran has benefit rights under any state unemployment insurance program, or under the Railroad Unemployment Insurance Act, he must first claim such benefits. In Michigan, Korean veterans' wage credits in employment covered by the Michigan Employment Security Act are frozen as of the time they entered military service. benefits if they had previously earned any wage credits. However, Mr. Smart said, many of the Korean veterans have entered the armed forces without having any work experience at all. The Federal Act is of particular benefit to these young vets.

Extravagnza At Interlochen

NATIONAL MUSIC CAMP IN SHOW PROGRAM THIS SATURDAY NIGHT

An extravaganza in the best P. T. Barnum tradition highlights National Music Camp programs Saturday evening, Augst 2, at the Interlochen, Mich., music center. The second annual "Roller Circus" directed by Interlochen dance director Frances Wright will feature 131 dancers from her troupe performing an entire circus on wheels — complete to lions, tigers, elephants, dancing girls, acrobats, a German band oom-pahing through the audience, dozens of clowns, and even a human cannon-ball.

The "big top" will be Kresge outdoor auditorium, and ring-master Maury King of Mt. Berry, Georgia, will snap his whip at 8:30 p.m. to start the show.

Interlochen band director George Wilson, garbed in appropriate circus attire, and his 60-piece Honors band will provide an authentic musical setting for the lavishly-costumed pageant.

Three-fourths of the young dancers never skated until one month ago when Miss Wright introducted them to roller skates as part of their dance instruction.

Michigan dancer-skaters featured will include John Zeder, 15, of Pleasant Ridge, and Cynthia Dieterichs, 16, of Munising.

Zeder drew the choice role of "Elmer" in the comedy "Elmer the Elephant" routine, plus a solo performance as the "Human Cannonball".

Cynthia will lead seven chorines in a interpretative tango, the well-know Leroy Anderson number, "Blue Tango". She also skates in the gigantic finale, Drum Beat".

Throughout the performance real vendors will hawk popcorn and peanuts in the crowd — the only time this season that food of any kind will be permitted at an Interlochen program.

Skunks Have A "Stinkin Good Time"

Skunks are having a "stinkin' good time" in D. H. Day state park.

A family with an almost impregnable defense not only has moved in under the conservation department park manager's residence, but the genial "house guests" occasionally come out, play and put on a show.

Standing in the doorway, manager Alan Billings attempted to get a picture of the playful skunks when one of the made a bolt for the open door. The wood kitty missed.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express our sincere appreciation and thanks to our many friends and neighbors for the kind deeds that were done during the illness and death of our dear husband and father; also for the beautiful flowers, many gifts, fruit, and cards.

We also wish to thank the blood donors who gave blood during his illness, and Rev. DeHaven for his comforting words.

AN APPRECIATION

I wish to thank the many friends who visited me and sent cards, flowers and gifts during my stay at Munson Hospital.

31x1 Ted Scott

On ansering his doorbell a man found an old friend and a large dog standing on his porch.

"Come in! Come in!" he said.

His friend came in and sat down, while the dog put the man's cat to flight, knocked over a bridge lamp and several vases, and finally made himself comfortable in his best chair.

When the guest rose to leave, the host said with a touch of sarcasm in his voice, "Aren't you forgetting your dog?"

"Dog? I have no dog. I thought he was yours."

Temple to Power Is Rome's Plant On Historic Tiber

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Along Rome's historic Tiber River a literal as well as symbolic temple to power has joined the ghost-haunted relics of imperial and fascist Rome.

Just opened by the president of postwar republican Italy, this modern temple is a hydroelectric plant which will harness Tiber waters at Castel Giubileo, about 10 miles north of the Eternal City. It is expected to contribute 70,000,000 kilowatt hours a year to Italy's power resources.

Compared with the 20-odd billion kilowatt hours annually produced in Italy as a whole, the Tiber plant's capacity is relatively minor. The station, however is part of a large-scale program for the region, and will meet a pressing need in Rome and environs.

It also represents an expansion of general power reserves now playing a vital part in rebuilding and expanding Italian industrial and economic strength.

Italy long has been handicapped by lack of domestic coal and oil. Most of such fuel has had to be imported at heavy cost and inconvenience. Thus, the nation has come to depend more and more on electric power, generated chiefly from streams and waterfalls of the Alps and of the Apennines mountain spine along the peninsular "boot."

An estimated 87 per cent of the electric power that operate Italy's factory machines, its heating, lighting, and household equipment, comes from these water sources.

The other 13 per cent is derived from thermal (heat-produced) electricity. Of the latter, nearly half is man-made in plants that burn coal, oil, and gas—mostly coal at present. The rest, known as geothermic power, is obtained through the ingenious tapping of nature's own heating system, available in various volcanic areas of Italy.

The main source of volcanic power so far developed is an awesome area of steam vents and boiling pools near the town of Larderello in west-central Italy. There a vast supply of underground energy was first put to work in a practical way before World War I.

Today, with the help of Uncle Sam's ECA funds to further Italy's over-all power programs, the modern plant and drilling machinery at Larderello are turning out a billion kilowatt hours annually, with considerably more in prospect.

Man Winds Up In Jail For No Sense of Humor

PONTIAC, Mich.—A guy who didn't have a sense of humor wound up in jail here recently.

Police Sgt. Gordon Hodges chased down a speeding convertible in nearby Birmingham and motioned it to the curb. Instead of the usual quip about "going to a fire", he said casually, "Where did you steal that car?"

To his complete surprise the driver stammered, "at Forest and Gratiot, sir."

Hodges booked the youth at the Pontiac jail. About an hour later the owner made the discovery that his car had been stolen.

Fuel Problem Cited Major Obstacle to Lunar Flight

NEW YORK—A rocket that could go to the Moon and other planets was termed a "marginal possibility" by a General Electric scientist.

Anthony J. Nerad of the G-E Research Laboratory said that the greatest factor in making such extremely long distance rocket flight possible, with fuels now available, would be a rocket built in stages. Nerad, who is Assistant Manager of the laboratory's chemistry division, said there would be several sections, which would drop off one by one after fuel is used.

However, the scientist warned, still more development is required to make such rockets a reality. Even by taking advantage of all known techniques to extract from propellants the best possible performance, we still "have not attained the real margins needed for very long-range terrestrial rockets or those which we can send to the planets."

Headliners of Yesteryear Just Quiet Citizens Now

CHICAGO, Ill.—Where are the people who made the headlines yesterday? They are living normal lives just like the rest of the world.

Douglas (Wrong Way) Corrigan, for instance, is a presently unemployed test pilot. He made world newslines when he supposedly took off in New York for Los Angeles and wound up in Ireland. Whitaker Chambers, long a headline figure in the Communist spy trials, now lives quietly on a farm in Maryland. Tom Harmon, Michigan's great halfback, then war hero and short-time movie star, now works for Columbia Broadcasting System.

Eden Ahbez, robe-wearing follower of Yoga, knew momentary fame with the popularity of his song "Nature Boy", but now lives quietly in California. Ruth Elder, first woman to fly the Atlantic, took a brief fling at vaudeville, now lives in seclusion.

Time passeth on.

Perfect Agreement

A well-know judge once had a case before him in which the plaintiff was represented by a very nervous young barrister. When the barrister rose to begin his address to the jury, he stammered, "My unfortunate client—" and there he stuck. He tried again and in a shaking voice he managed to say, "My unfortunate client—" but he could get no further. Clearing his throat, he quavered for the third time, "My unfortunate client—." Again his voice failed.

"Come, come," interrupted the judge, "proceed with your address So far the court agrees with you."

Dilemma!

Some kids were having a party and they decided to play postoffice The first little boy and girl went into the closet and didn't come out The other kids called to them to come out immediately. "We can't," came a muffled reply. "We have our braces hooked!"

D. L. (DON'T, DO LAUGH)

Folks along the C. & O. line up in Eastern Kentucky like to tell a story about a rather dense character who once worked briefly for the line.

This man's job was to do nothing more than check on all cars as they entered the yard and to check those which needed repairs of one kind or another. Those marked for repairs later would be switched over to the shop, the others sent out to pick up freight.

Well, after this character had been on the job one day, the switch crew went out to pick up the cars. However, the crew found every car had "DG" freshly chalked on the side.

"How in the world can I tell the O.K. cars from the bad ones?" the crew chief stormed. "And what in blazes does 'DG' mean?"

"Guess I made a slight mistake," the guy apologized. "'DG' means 'Do Go' and 'Don't Go!'"

Fooled Again

Bob—"I'm getting stronger."

Helen—"How do you know?"

Bob—"Because a few years ago I couldn't carry ten dollars' worth of groceries and now it's easy."

HOW INCONSIDERATE!

They were having just one more at the bar when an old friend, previously quite normal, walked through the door, up the wall, across the ceiling and down the other wall. There was a moment of stunned silence, then: "What do you know about that!" one drinker exclaimed to the other. "He didn't even speak to us!"

Clean Kid

Removing finger smudges from the doors in the house, Mother asked, "Ann, are your hands dirty? Did you put them on the doors?"

"Oh, no," replied Ann. "Those can't be my finger marks—I always kick the doors open!"

DIDN'T PLAY

Hostess: "Did that rude husband of mine ask you not to play?"

Musical Guest: "Oh, no, Mrs. Jones, he only asked me not to play a certain tune."

Hostess: "What was it he said?"

Guest: "He said not to play 'For the Love of Pete.'"

Family Mixup

Two Hollywood youngsters were talking as they walked home from school. "I've got two little brothers and one sister," boasted one. "How many do you have?"

"I don't have any brothers and sisters," answered the second lad, "but I do have five papas by my first mama and three mamas by my first papa."

Exercise Needed To Make Daddy Fit as Fiddle

IOWA CITY, Iowa—Say, Dad—want to feel 20 years younger?

You can do it, if you're willing to spend a few minutes a day at the right kind of exercise.

This is the opinion of C. H. McCloy, research professor of physical education at the State University of Iowa, who says that a person of 60 can feel 20 years younger if he'll exercise for 20 minutes a day and take a 15-minute walk.

You'd agree that he knows what he's talking about if you could watch McCloy—an active youth of 65-plus, himself—do the 25 chin-ups which he can do with ease. The average performance of all World War II servicemen was only eight chin-ups.

Follows Routine

McCloy devotes an hour each day to strenuous exercise, and plans to continue this routine until advised by his doctor to stop.

"People should be careful not to overexercise, and all persons should be checked by a physician before starting a program of exercise," he warns.

With all the benefits of modern science and medicine, there is no reason for you to lose a large amount of your strength and vitality with advancing age, McCloy maintains. A man of 60 should have at least 85 per cent as much vitality as one of 25, he says.

"Most people should be healthy until they wear out," he claims. "Some, however, are limited by bad hearts or other organs, but even these persons can be helped a little by exercise. This exercise should be prescribed by a physician who has specialized in this field of medicine."

The problem of keeping older persons in good physical condition will become a vital one in years to come, since the number of persons in our society over 65 years old is constantly increasing.

By 1980, McCloy points out, only 55 per cent of the American population will be within the wage-earning age group and about 40 to 45 per cent will be supporting the entire society. This will include the 15 per cent who will be over 65, the 30 per cent younger than the wage-earning group and others who do not work for wages.

Possible Remedy

This unbalanced situation can be partially remedied by letting people continue on the job past the presently-established retirement age. Even if allowed to work only part-time, these persons would become an important part of the labor force and would not rely on society to support them, McCloy emphasizes.

That's where the benefits of exercise come in, as a means of preparing for the years ahead. Besides helping to extend the span of useful, active life, it just makes you feel better in general to be "in shape". And 90 per cent of all older persons can keep themselves in good physical shape with proper exercise, McCloy asserts.

Exercise should be made a part of your daily routine to be most effective, in McCloy's opinion. He recommends that it be done first thing in the morning, so a person can start the day feeling "sharp".

Front Line Galley Cooks In Korea Always Use Wits

WITH THE FIRST MARINE DIVISION IN KOREA—Seldom does necessity have more opportunity for motherhood than with cooks manning front line galleys in Korea. Take the case of Marine mess sergeant William L. Penney of Daytona Beach, Florida.

Penney decided to "whomp up a batch" of jelly-filled doughnuts for palate-weary men in his unit. Necessary ingredients were mixed and sizzling in deep fat when he had a horrible thought!

How was he to get the jelly in the jellied doughnuts?

Sergeant Penney rose magnificently to the emergency. Cranking up the field telephone, he contacted sick bay.

No, sick bay had no ear syringe. "Sorry . . . and what in . . . does Cookie want with an ear syringe anyway?"

Undaunted by skepticism and sarcasm, Penney called motor transport.

And two hours later every man in the company was chomping away on doughnuts, complete with jelly centers.

"Nothin' like a grease gun for filling pastry," said Penney proudly. "Don't know why I didn't think of it sooner."

French Burglar Is Upset When Wife Deserts Him

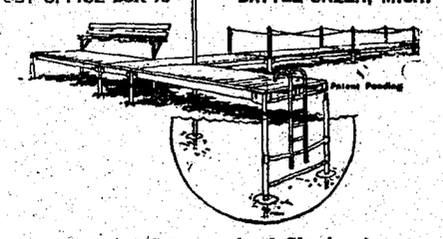

PARIS—Etienne Lemaitre, a convicted burglar awaiting trial on a murder charge, thought that he had good grounds when his wife ran off with another man, and so complained to the court.

"I'm a burglar, sure," he said, "I have stolen millions. But when a burglar's wife runs off with a policeman, that's really the limit."

The understanding court fined the wife 6,000 francs ($17.10) for adultery and awarded Lemaitre one franc (about ¼ cents) for damages

East Jordan Miss likes to walk around on the wings of flying plane. That is the way Adeline Trojanek, clerk in the auto title division of the department of state describes walking on the top wings of a plane travelling 80 miles an hour at a height of 3,000 feet. She has never piloted a plane but as a passenger had done about all the stunts in the air curriculum. "I want to take a ride on your plane", she said to Lieut A. J. Davis, M. A. C. college flier who owns the Michigan Airways Inc in East Lansing. "If you don't mind I will ride on the top wing and walk around a bit." Lieut Davis looked her over and was convinced she was not seeking suicide, so they took a ride, MissTrojanek standing on the top wing. At 3,000 ft. she one-stepped around from end to end. Miss Trojaneks home is in East Jordan.

FARM FACTS from your County Agricultural Agent

Ed. Rebman, Co. Agr'l Agent

Addition of aureomycin and vitamin B 12 to feeds does not overcome the ill effects of worms in hogs, Ed Rebman, county agricultural agent, told farmers this week.

He said that some hog raisers have the mistaken idea that autibiotics and vitamins will let them forget their worm worries.

Rebman cited an experiment conducted by the U.S. Department of Agriculture to illustrate his point. Eight 10-week-old pigs were divided into two groups of four. Each group contained pigs from the same two litters. At the beginning of the experiment there was not more than a pound difference in weight between the groups of pigs.

One group was fed a regular diet—the other was fed the regular diet, plus six pounds of a crude mixture of vitamin B12 and aureomycin per ton of feed. Two days after the pigs were divided, two pigs in each group were infested with worms. All the pigs were weighed and slaughtered 169 days later.

Results showed that the worm free pigs on the special diet gained 161 pounds each, but those infested with worms on this diet gained 118 and 120 pounds, respectively. The worm-free pigs on the regular diet gained 98 and 164 pounds each. Those infested with worms on the regular diet gained 70 and 84 pounds each.

These experimental results show that pigs do gain more when fed antibiotics, but this growth is limited if worms are present.

About 21 percent of the tillable acres in Northern Michigan are in pasture, Ed Rebman, county agricultural agent, said today. Because of this high percentage, it is important that pasture be given serious attention. Native grasses supply good pasture early in the season; however, by midsummer they mature and become dry so they are no longer capable of supplying the needs of producing livestock.

Alfalfa and brome grass, and canary grass are some of the better high producing types of pasture that will hold up during a dry period. A program that has become popular is to make grass silage out of the early, plentiful supply of forage for midsummer feeding. A trench or horizonal type silo may be used.

To further hold down the cost of this job of preserving some of the feast for the famine, this silage can be put into this trench without chopping. It is important to have the sides fairly straight on the silo and to pack it well by driving over it with a tractor. The top may be covered with saw inches to prevent spoilage.

dust to a depth of about six

A field planted to fall rye in mid-August will give early fall pasture. This may solve the problem of having a field to pasture while the alfalfa-brome takes its fall rest period. Fertilizing the reed canary grass will make it more palatable. Those who do not have reed canary should remember that it is the summer dry months when the water table is low that those areas suitable for this crop can best be worked up. Seeding should be by mid-August or else late fall after plant growth has stopped. This usually means November 15.

Mice

Get Rich Plan Backfires

BRUSSELS, Belgium — Belgium is having its trouble. A firm recently advertised that young white mice were needed in laboratory experiments and offered thousands for sale at $2 a pair. The advertisement offered to buy back the resulting droves of young white mice at 48 cents a head.

Thousands of Belgians purchased the mice. They produced thousands upon thousands of white mice but no profits. Crates of white mice came by the carload to the unsuspecting railroad stationmaster at Charleroi —the address listed by the advertisers.

When they remained uncollected after several days, he had them destroyed. The thousands more that kept arriving were shipped back to the senders.

Frantic Belgians, some with as many as 500 white mice in their homes and many more coming regularly, called in police. But the authorities said there was no legal basis for any action against anybody—except perhaps those would-be breeders who tried to wash their hands of the whole thing by turning loose their white mice in the streets.

Married Women Seen Best Labor Source For Defense Program

CHICAGO—Married women must provide the bulk of the new labor force required for all-out defense production, a leading home economist here predicts, in offering working wives four simple rules for maintaining household efficiency.

"With virtually all male employables either already working or slated for military service and nearly all the available single women also employed, it is obvious that a great percentage of defense workers must come from the ranks of married women," Betty Ware Browning, director of home economics for Nesco, Inc., said. "These women can do two jobs successfully and without impairment of their own or their family's welfare if they plan properly and have the proper equipment."

To handle their home chores successfully Miss Browning advises married women to:

1. Organize your work properly. Establish definite times to do specific jobs, plan menus at least a week ahead, schedule all household activities and keep to the schedule.

2. Take full advantage of modern labor-saving devices. Mechanize your home as fully as possible with such aids as electric roasters, mixing machines, automatic home laundry equipment, pressure cookers and pressure pan, vacuum cleaners and the various other appliances that save time and effort.

3. Cut down food preparation time by using frozen foods, prepared biscuit and cake mixes, packaged meats and vegetables and other postwar food developments that require little advance preparation.

4. Do all your shopping in one weekly trip to the supermarket.

Students Perform Unusual Jobs While Earning Degrees

NEW YORK—According to John F. X. Ryan, undergraduate placement director at City College of New York, students are still performing unusual jobs while earning their degrees.

Probably the first American to work his way through college was Zechariah Brigden. He earned 22 shillings, 6 pence a week as a bell ringer at Harvard college in 1654.

Today students are still doing unusual jobs. A father called Ryan just before Christmas and requested a student with a "deep, jolly voice" for a job. The student with the required voice reported for work and discovered he was to play Santa Claus to the man's three children. He played his part behind a screen.

Of more than 10,000 jobs listed by the placement bureau at City college, magazine salesmen are in great demand, but Ryan finds students are reluctant to take the risk of a commission. They prefer a sure return.

Hundreds of students, he said, would rather risk getting rashes when employed by a New Jersey chemical testing company to wear dyes and chemicals on their skins to test reactions. For this job they get $5 a "patch test."

There are taxicab drivers, policemen and firemen attending the college, and one student is a meat carver for a large packing house. Others walk dogs for "canine clubs", baby sit, do personal shopping or wait on tables.

Oslo Gave to Be Shelter; Garage During Peacetime

OSLO, Norway — Some 800,000 cubic feet of rock will be blasteted out of a hill near the royal palace in the center of Oslo for the first of four public air raid shelters planned for the Norwegian capital.

The shelter will have two floors with room for about 4,000 people and is scheduled for completion by the end of 1951. In peacetime it will be used as a garage for 120 automobiles.

Work on Oslo's three other air raid shelters will start this year. Shelter for a total of 45,000 people will be provided in the first building stage.

SHORT STORY

No Apologies

By Georgia C. Nicholas

"YOU'RE LATE, Neil Horner!" Taffy handed Neil her jacket to hold for her.

"I know it," Neil said, "And what's more I forgot to bring back that book that my mother borrowed from your mother."

3-Minute Fiction

"And you're not even sorry?" Taffy prodded.

Neil opened the door for her. "I'm only ten minutes late and your mother said she was in no hurry for the book."

Taffy didn't answer until they were in the car and on their way to the Horner residence for dinner. "Just how late do you have to be to say you're sorry?"

"What good would it do to say I'm sorry?"

Taffy didn't answer. She didn't want to start a quarrel now. She didn't know Neil's parents very well and she did hope they'd like her. Taffy's mother and Neil's mother belonged to the same club and that's how they became acquainted.

"See why I never apologize," he whispered.

"When are you going to say you'll marry me?" Neil asked as if he didn't know Taffy was peeved.

"I'm not. You haven't any manners."

"I haven't had any complaints before. Don't I always open doors for you and all the other things a guy is supposed to do?

"Oh, yes, the manners that can be seen. But just between us two sometimes I think you're downright rude. You never apologize."

"When are you going to say you'll marry me?"

"I won't say it till you say you're sorry you were late and that you forgot the book."

This time Neil was the quiet one. The situation was still unsettled when he turned onto a winding driveway. "Oh, Neil, do you think they'll like me?" Taffy asked.

"Does it matter?"

TAFFY had no chance to answer that one. A maid opened the door for them. She showed Taffy to a bedroom and while Taffy was taking off her jacket Mrs. Horner entered.

"I'm so sorry I wasn't at the front door," Mrs. Horner mourned. "I was all upset this afternoon because the butcher didn't send the kind of meat I ordered. I'm afraid it isn't going to be a very good dinner."

Taffy did her best to assure Mrs. Horner that she was quite comfortable without her jacket. It seemed that the oil burner was out of kilter.

"I don't know how I look in this dress," Mrs. Horner said. "It's one I made myself and I just finished it this afternoon."

Taffy laughed her polite little laugh and they went downstairs. Mr. Horner was a much more comfortable person to meet. He tried to make conversation at the dinner table and cancel his wife's deprecation of everything. After dinner he said, "Mother, I think our guest might like to see some of your paintings."

"Yes," Neil said, "Mother's giving Grandma Moses a run for her money."

Mr. Horner led the way into the living room. Mrs. Horner said, "Oh, they really aren't worth looking at."

"Then let's not look at them."

Had Taffy said that? Taffy had. She realized it on the word 'look' and that was too late. She put her hand over her mouth and faced Neil. His mouth was open as if he'd started to say something, changed his mind and forgotten to shut it. But there was a sparkle in his eyes, the same sparkle she had loved for a long time.

She wasn't quite clear about who said what during the next minute. But somehow Mr. Horner led Mrs. Horner out of the room and people said goodnight. She still stood there looking helplessly at Neil.

He held out his arms. "See why I never apologize?" he whispered.

"Yes, I see. I still think you carry it to extremes, but if I can ever be forgiven for what I just said I'd like to marry you sometime."

"Forgiven? That was just what my mother needed. Now let's take this book back to your mother and tell her we're engaged."

Fred M. Alger

Alger became an enthusiastic Eisenhower for president supporter more than a year ago, when the two met and talked over the country's needs, seeing eye to eye.

Alger was the first state official, and the only candidate for governor to endorse Eisenhower. He was criticized for doing so. It wasn't good politics. Good politics dictated that he ride the fence. He wouldn't because he believes the people should know where a candidate for office stands.

The Eisenhower-Alger combination is a natural.

Both are agreed that the Nation's defense comes first.

Both have proven themselves good and able administrators, Ike in the European zone, Alger as an efficient, economy-minded, three-term Secretary of State.

Both are full-time veterans of World War II.

Both have records bespeaking unalterable hatred of dictatorship, Ike in arming the western world against Stalinist aggression; Alger as leader of the movement which ended machine rule of the Republican Party of Michigan.

They understand each other.

It's a pair that can't be beat.

The Servicemen's Letter

Hi Fellas:

A new man on our list this week is Pee Wee Peck. He ended up in the armored down in Fort Leonard Wood. His address is Pvt Lyle R. Peck, US 55 273 476, Btry B, 93rd FA Bn, 6th Armored Div, Fort Leonard Wood, Missouri. Pee Wee — do you know Jim McLaughlin? Well, he is there in camp with you studying to be a cook. He ought to be a good man to know. He is in the 5012 A.S.U., Food Service School. Better look him up.

Bill Snyder was in the office yesterday. He has finished his basic at Fort Riley and is home on leave before he takes off for Georgia for ASA school. He was in Fort Devens for just about a day and a half but didn't get to see the Morris twins, DaleLavanway, or Brock Peacock.

Congratulations to Wayne Flora. Those long awaited two stripes have at last settled on his shoulders.

Vale Keller has been home since July 5th and I just found out last week. Guess I'm pretty slow about some things. Vale was to see me just before he left for Camp Stoneman on the 23rd. Camp Stoneman is a POE for airmen and Vale figures he will be on his way to Japan very soon. Bob Farmer is leaving for the same camp at about the same time. Wouldn't it be jolly if these two drew the same ship?

Just received word that we should add Company A to Ken Richards address. The correction has been made, Eenie.

While on the subject of England, here's a letter from Bob Mosher, who is over there not far from Eeenie. "Here I am with a few lines again. After getting Eenies address from your paper I wrote him a line. He is at Fairford, just 14 miles from Brize Norton, but in my weak financial state at this time of the month it's almost impossible to see him.

'We are making plans to get together after payday. Boy it sure will be good to see someone from E.J.

'They are keeping us quite busy, as wee keep all SCARWAF equipment in England going. They number 1300 pieces I am told. That's how I knew Ken was near because we have a lot of the 817th equipment to work on. No more than any others but still a lot. At present I am working on a road grader, have been for a week and it looks like I'll be at it for another week. When they stop is when they come in to be fixed so we really get some sad machinery to work on.

'Gotta close now and take in the cinema."

Thanks for the note, Bob. That's what I would like from all you men overseas. Don't mind if you can't write me a long letter. Just drop me a lote or even a postal card. We all like to hear how you are getting along.

Glen Persons is back in Norfolk now. You men down there can probably find the USS Botetourt in the harbor. Glen just took his exam for 3rd Class. Here's hoping you made it, Glen.

In a letter from Clifford Schultz I discoverel that last week I gave you one part of his address wrong. His address reads L.C.U. Ron One instead of L.C.U. Ro One. Here's his letter. "It is about time I dropped you a line and told you of my change of address. I am now on APA (transport) heading for Japan. We left the States the tenth and expect to get there about the first. We spent 2 days in Pearl Harbor and are on our way to Wake Island. I don't know how long we will stay there.

'We will be put on an LCU when we get to Japan but as yet I don't know what they will have us doing. Well, it is about time for the movie so I'll sign off for now."

Thanks for keeping us posted, Cliff.

Last week I reported that Louis Addis and wife had been transferred to Colorado. But I forgot to put in his new address. Here it is: M/Sgt Louis Addis, 36 926 845, Flight D, 4th ARS, Lowry AFB, Colorado. I note also that Russell Fyan is in that same base. He is in the 3415 Student Squad I'll bet he would be glad to make your acquaintance, Louis.

Glen Persons brother Sam left for Detroit this Monday to take his Army Physical. If he passes he is going right on in at once. I'll be able to let you know next week.

Here's a letter from the Fleet Home Town News Center at Great Lakes, Illinois about Bruce Bolser. "UN FORCES KOREA — Serving here aboard the destroyer USS James C. Owens is Bruce E. Bolser, gunners mate seaman, USN. Bolser entered the Navy on July 13, 1950 and received his recruit training at the U.S. Naval Training Center, Great Lakes, Illinois. In May the Owens knocked out two Communist shore batteries near Songjin. In the battle the destroyer suffered six direct hits." It sounds as though Bruce has been through the hoops.

More news next week, men.

Paving Barn Lot Makes Work Easier During Wet Spring

"When farm work slackens this fall you may want to consider paving your barn lot to make next spring's work easier," suggests J. S. Boyd, Michigan State College agricultural engineer.

He has some pointers for doing a better job. The barn lot is most useful if the area is sunny and has some protection from prevailing westerly winds. That means planning the lot for the south or the east side of the barn. Or a board fence between buildings may turn the wind. You need only a little protection.

Second consideration is the slope of the lot. About one-fourth inch slope per foot is about right, Boyd says. Carry the slope out from the barn to a broad, grassed waterway where surface drainage water leads rapidly away.

Boyd suggests a goal of 100 square feet per cow in the paved area. You may want additional earth barn lot for drier weather.

Clean the lot before you pave, fill in spongy spots, and grade down high spots. Sand or gravel four to six inches deep, will keep the lot from settling after the concrete is laid. A gravel base also helps reduce damage from frost heaving.

The finished paving will need to be several inches below the inside barn floor level. That lets doors swing free and keeps water from running into the barn. Boyd recommends a full four inches of good quality concrete. If there will be heavy traffic, such as loaded wagons or trucks, the concrete should be reinforced with welded wire mesh.

It is a good idea to dig a foot-deep trench around the edges of the paved area. Fill this with sand the same as under the rest of the barn lot. This will help keep out rodents, prevent undercutting from erosion or cracking from vehicles driven onto the pavement.

Don't wait too long to start the job this fall. Boyd warns that concrete should never be laid over frozen ground.

"Oh, darling, I love you so. I'm not wealthy, like Jerome Green. I haven't a car, or a fine house, like Jerome Green. But darling I love you."

"And I love you, too, darling; but where is this man Green?"

Seed Wheat Bought From Local Source Rated Dependable

Many farmers are beginning to think about seed for the wheat crop to be planted this fall. S. C. Hildebrand, Michigan State College extension specialist in farm crops, has some suggestions based on research tests and experiences of farmers.

Both soft white winter and soft red winter wheats are recommended for Michigan depending on the section of the state. The hard red winter wheats are not recommended because they do not produce typical hard wheat. Therefore, a dockage may result if the soft and hard types become mixed on the farm or at the elevator.

Hildebrand recommends purchasing seed wheat from local seed dealers and seed producers. They are interested in your business year after year while salesmen who travel from farm to farm selling seed at high prices may neve try to sell you seed wheat again. For this reason local dealers may be more dependable. In some cases, salesmen from other areas may sell seed which is not even adapted to your farm.

The Michigan State College specialist also points out that seed certified by the Michigan Crop Improvement Association is of high varietal purity and is more free from mixtures of other wheat and rye. Such seed is as good or better than any available and can usually be obtained locally at reasonable prices.

"Little Tiger" Gives Dog a Battle

The white "little tiger" giving the dog a battle in Mrs. Albert Wright's backyard proved to be a rare albino woodchuck, the conservation department reports.

Answering the call for help from the St. John woman, conservation officer Earl Goff finally managed to bag the odd-colored woodchuck and cart it down to the Rose Lake Wildlife Experiment station northeast of Lansing.

Normal coloring of the "professional excavator" is gray with a yellow cast.

Teach Youth To Have Faith In A Supreme Being

Behind the dark veil that separates today from tomorrow may lie strange, new faces, treacherous tides, innumerable hidden dangers and new foes of human life and happiness. These are the great uncertainties of life.

The man of today, like his primitive ancestors, peers anxiously, even fearfully, into the future and tries to solve its mysteries, but the effort is futile. His vision is humble to pierce the darkness that shounds tomorrow and tomorrow and tomorrow.

He has survived and become pre-eminent in the world because he possessed faith — faith in himself and his race, and faith in a "Supreme Being" who drew the pattern of the universe and made the laws that govern human destinies.

This is the golden thread that runs through history. It is the key to all the uncertainties and mysteries. It is the light that has guided man's footsteps into his enternal futures. Teach children to have faith in a supreme being.
